PROGRAM PRINCIPLES

The International Outreach Community Service Program is designed to enable members to become better world citizens through advocacy, education, and action, which will in turn affect change in and for our global friends and their communities.

As recently as fifty years ago, it could take days and weeks before information was received concerning global issues. Today, because of modern communication technology and global economics, we learn about these situations as they are occurring. What affects those around the world affects us all.

- Almost half the world—over three billion people—live on less than $2.50 a day.
- According to UNICEF, 24,000 children die each day due to poverty.
- Infectious diseases continue to blight the lives of the poor across the world. An estimated 40 million people are living with HIV/AIDS, with three million deaths in 2004. Every year there are 350-500 million cases of malaria, with 1 million fatalities.
- Some 1.1 billion people in developing countries have inadequate access to water, and 2.6 billion lack basic sanitation.

The GFWC International Outreach Community Service Program allows clubs to reach beyond their own communities through education and global awareness. We do this in several ways.

Via international cultural exchanges, GFWC club women promote programs on world peace and understanding. Several organizations can assist members in hosting a visiting foreign student or adult, or by inviting an international visitor to speak at a club meeting. Or travel to and/or volunteer in developing countries to gain a better appreciation for the challenges women, children, and families face. By reaching out to individuals from other countries and cultures, we increase our understanding of people from other countries and cultures, while simultaneously promoting a better understanding of Americans.

By educating members and their communities about international programs that concern women and children, and supporting GFWC’s presence as a UN Non-Governmental Organization Observer, GFWC can impact international human rights policy.

Last, we work to provide GFWC clubwomen with direct service opportunities for persons in developing countries, with a particular focus on women and children. Through our program partners, we help improve basic education, prevent the spread of HIV and other diseases, increase access to clean water and sanitation, expand economic opportunity and protect natural resources.

Although the GFWC members, in most cases, cannot physically be present to assist and make changes in countries around the world, our members can be assured that the donations made through our partnership agencies are reaching those in the greatest need.

PROGRAM PRINCIPLES

The goals for the International Outreach Community Service Program are listed below in order to assist you in measuring project success and positive change in your communities. The listed objectives further outline how we can build projects that support these goals.

Goal: GFWC clubwomen are informed and engaged better world citizens within the global community.	Objective 1. To increase GFWC members knowledge and awareness of human rights global issues.
	Objective 2. To impact international human rights policy by the end of the 2010-2012 administration.
	Objective 3. To create opportunities for GFWC clubwomen to provide direct service opportunities for women and children around

CALL TO ACTION

COLLABORATIONS

The objective of the collaborations area is to give clubs the opportunity to use their own creative skills to develop programs and projects based on their clubs’ interests in international outreach. Whether it is advocating for the end of human trafficking or giving a person in another country the skills, tools, or resources to change their own lives, this is the individual club’s opportunity to research, plan, and implement those projects. This section is where the individual club will report all the projects that are not specifically related to our signed program partners.

In the GFWC International Outreach Collaborations Programs, GFWC clubs will:

- Research, plan, and implement projects, programs, and advocacy based on its interests and the needs that the club members see and feel are important. This is the club members' opportunity to think out of the box and do it their way.
- Report. It is imperative that clubs report the projects that they have developed so we as an organization can better see where our members' interests lie, and so those statistics can be used in working with and recruiting new GFWC Partners, grants, and advocacy opportunities.
- Reporting is also important so that we can highlight and share your club's creativity and interests with our membership so they can also be inspired to either implement a similar project or use it for inspiration for their own.

Explore examples of what your fellow GFWC clubs have done around the country to implement projects related to international outreach in their own communities. For more information about any of the following GFWC club projects, please contact the GFWC International Outreach Collaboration Chairman or GFWC Programs Director at GFWC@GFWC.org.

If you have a successful project that you would like to share with GFWC and your fellow members, please contact the GFWC International Outreach Collaboration Chairman or GFWC Programs Director at GFWC@GFWC.org.

GFWC Las Noches Woman's Club (Arizona) provided much needed supplies and monetary support to a clinic in Mexico where Dr. Kent Allen provides medical services to underprivileged men, women, and children. Dr. Allen was a featured speaker at a club meeting where the women assembled and donated 50 hygiene bags to aid in his cause to give adequate medical services to the clinic patients in Mexico. In addition to this donation, a member of Las Noches Woman's Club went above and beyond by volunteering to travel to the clinic once a month and donate interpreter services to the doctors who are working in the triage unit.

GFWC Lagniappe Woman's Club (California) donated $100 for solar cookers to aid women refugees who were forced to flee Darfur, Sudan. The Lagniappe Woman's Club worked to ensure these female refugees were able to use solar cookers to sterilize water allowing them to avoid venturing out for firewood where they are vulnerable to attack and rape in the war torn area of Darfur.

GFWC Aiken Woman's Club (South Carolina) found a special place in their heart for the plight of human trafficking victims. In Nepal girls from poor families are often sold into slavery and exploited by those who are meant to protect them. The club women donated $100 in order to buy a young girl out of slavery and give her the life of freedom she deserves.

GFWC Erwin Monday Club (Tennessee) wanted to do something different for their district meeting. The members used an Asian theme and traditional Asian colors and carried it throughout the meeting decorations and meal. Members took a basic Asian border and created table decorations that ran down the center of the tables on moss creating a wall, and this border was also used on the name tags and programs. They created Asian-inspired flower arrangements, which were dispersed throughout the room and completed the decorations with kimonos and various Asian objects members had collected through their travels. The meal was catered by a local Chinese restaurant, which added the final touch.

GFWC Ossoli Circle (Tennessee) participated in Pennies for Peace in order to raise money to build schools for girls in Pakistan and Afghanistan. They were inspired by speaker, Dr. Gregg Mortenson, who numerous members traveled to hear him speak on the need for schools for young girls. The club created a large container to be kept at the clubhouse where they collected pennies to send to the Asia Institute in Montana. The members also purchased two of Dr. Mortenson's childrens books to give to the schools they have adopted. The club shares Dr. Mortenson's belief that education for young women all over the world is a priority and should be emphasized in all countries.

The GFWC Woman's Club of Smithfield (Virginia) was touched by a local man's story of the need in Africa. Magambo MeKango was a refugee from the Congo and was able to give back to his local village with the help of The GFWC Woman's Club of Smithfield. They donated almost all of the clothing left over from their annual flea market to the men, women, and children of this village. In total approximately 100 pieces of clothing were sent to the Congo.

GFWC Lewisburg Women's Club (West Virginia) provided school supplies for children who were staying at the Family Refugee Center in Lewisburg and the Child youth Advocacy Center in order to start the 2009-2010 school year.
